Wednesday, June 22, 2022 (actual value depends on regional settings) FormatDateTime - Short Date NamedFormat:=vbShortDate - Display a date using the short date format specified in your computer's regional settings. This function can be used for many formatting purposes, here we only discuss its use with dates. w Display the day of the week as a number (1 for Sunday through 7 for Saturday). Hh Display the hour as a number with leading zeros (00 - 23). mmm Display the month as an abbreviation (Jan - Dec). A leading zero is displayed if the leading zero option is selected and the time is before 10:00 A.M. or P.M. The default time format is h:mm:ss. Format character for time h Display the hour as a number without leading zeros (0 - 23). Format characters for month m Display the month as a number without a leading zero (1 - 12). t t t t t Display a time as a complete time (including hour, minute, and second), formatted using the time separator defined by the time format recognized by your system. At the bottom of the page you will see the complete list of characters you can use to format a date and their meaning. y Display the day of the year as a number (1 - 366). 6/22/2022 11:40:38 AM (actual value depends on regional settings) FormatDateTime - Long Date NamedFormat:=vbLongDate - Display a date using the long date format specified in your computer's regional settings. Nn Display the minute as a number with leading zeros (00 - 59). The default format is AM/PM. dddd Display the day as a full name (Sunday - Saturday). Unfortunately, it does not support a vbMediumDate to return strings like 24-Jun-16. yyyy Display the year as a 4-digit number (100 - 9999). This is the format your users are most acquainted with. Format character for year yy Display the year as a 2-digit number (00 - 99). It uses Display a date using the selected format as specified in your computer's regional settings. Dim strFormattedDate As String strFormattedDate = FormatDateTime(Expression:=Now, NamedFormat:=vbGeneralDate) FormatDateTime - General NamedFormat:=vbGeneralDate - Display a date using the long date format specified in your computer's regional settings. Easy date formatting, use the VBA FormatDateTime function The FormatDateTime function is the easiest way to get a usable string representing date and/or time. AM/PM Use the 12-hour clock and display an uppercase AM with any hour before noon, display an uppercase PM with any hour between noon and 11:59 P.M. am/pm Use the 12-hour clock and display a lowercase AM with any hour before noon; display a lowercase PM with any hour between noon and 11:59 P.M. AP Use the 12-hour clock and display an uppercase A with any hour before noon; display an uppercase P with any hour between noon and 11:59 P.M. a/p Use the 12-hour clock and display a lowercase A with any hour before noon; display a lowercase P with any hour between noon and 11:59 P.M. AMPM Use the 12-hour clock and display the AM string literal as defined by your system with any hour before noon; display the PM string literal as defined by your system with any hour between noon and 11:59 P.M. AMPM can be either uppercase or lowercase, but the case of the string displayed matches the string as defined by your system settings. Format:="dddd, mmm d yyyy" - Display a date using exact specified string Friday, Jun 24 2022 Format characters for day Character Description d Display the day as a number without a leading zero (1 - 31). Format character for week of the year ww Display the week of the year as a number (1 - 54). CODE VBA - 4TOPS Copyright 1997-2022 Format character for quarter of the year q Display the quarter of the year as a number (1 - 4). oooo The same as mmmm, only it's the localized version of the string. mmmm Display the month as a full month name (January - December). It has the additional advantage that if your users are in different regions the displayed value is automatically localized and understandable for them. dd Display the day as a number with a leading zero (01 - 31). 6/22/2022 (actual value depends on regional settings) Advanced date formatting, use the VBA Format function When using the Format function to format a date, in most cases the code will look like: Dim dt As Date: dt = Now Dim strFormatted As String strFormatted = Format(Expression:=dt, Format:="Medium Date") or strFormatted = Format(Expression:=dt, Format:="dddd, mmm d yyyy") The first example, with Format:="Medium Date", shows calling one of the predefined date formats (other values 'General Date', 'Long Date' (or 'dddddd') and 'Short Date' (or 'ddddd'), similar to the vbGeneralDate use in FormatDateTime above The second example shows how you can construct a string exactly as you see fit using a combination of characters. 24-Jun-16 (actual value depends on the language version of the host application) Format date using characters Below we discuss how characters can be used in the Format argument to create a custom date string. N Display the minute as a number without leading zeros (0 - 59). dddd Display the day as an abbreviation (Sun - Sat). Format - Medium Date Format:="Medium Date" - Display a date using the medium date format appropriate for the language version of the host application. VBA provides two functions for formatting a date string to present it to the user. S Display the second as a number without leading zeros (0 - 59). Fortunately for this we can use the Format function. Ss Display the second as a number with leading zeros (00 - 59). The easiest one is FormatDateTime which lets you choose either the short or the long version specified in your computer's regional settings. If m immediately follows h or hh, the minute rather than the month is displayed. mm Display the month as a number with a leading zero (01 - 12). aaaa The same as dddd, only it's the localized version of the string.
